DETAILED ACTION

Claims 1-7 and 9-13 are pending in the instant application.

Previous Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

Claims 1-10 were previously rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over van der Slot et al. (Organometallics, 2002, 3873-3883) in view of Billig et al. (Kirk-Othmer Encyclopedia of Chemical Technology, 1996, "Oxo Process" Pages 1-17).

Applicant has traversed the rejection on the grounds that the amended claim contains concentration ranges for the catalyst components and that the references do not teach those concentrations.

The Examiner disagrees because the courts have ruled that "[W]here the general conditions of a claim are disclosed in the prior art, it is not inventive to discover the optimum or workable ranges by routine experimentation." In re Aller, 220 F.2d 454, 456, 105 USPQ 233, 235 (CCPA 1955) Generally, differences in concentration or temperature will not support the patentability of subject matter encompassed by the prior art unless there is evidence indicating such concentration or temperature is critical. As the Applicant has not presented any evidence that the concentration ranges are critical, therefore the rejection is maintained for claims 1-7, 9, and 10 and is withdrawn for claim 8 which is cancelled.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1-7, 9 and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over van der Slot et al. (Organometallics, 2002, 3873-3883) in view of Billig et al. (Kirk-Othmer Encyclopedia of Chemical Technology, 1996, "Oxo Process" Pages 1-17).

The instant claims are drawn to a catalyst composition comprising a compound of Formula 1 [BPO-P(PyI)<sub>2</sub>], Formula 2 [TPP], and Formula 3 [Rh(acac)(CO)<sub>2</sub>].

van der Slot et al. teach the composition of with  $\text{Rh}(\text{acac})(\text{CO})_2$  for hydroformylation. See page 3875 and Table 3 on page 3876, especially the top entry.

van der Slot et al. do not teach the use of TPP in the catalyst composition.

Billig et al. teach the use of TPP with a rhodium catalyst as the industry standard for hydroformylation of ethylene and propylene. See page 4.

Therefore, one of ordinary skill in the art would take the catalyst composition of van der Slot et al. and modify it by adding the TPP of Billig et al. with a reasonable expectation of success. The motivation to combine the references is that since TPP and rhodium is the industry standard, it would make sense to one of skill in the art to try to add TPP to the catalyst of van der Slot et al. to create a new catalyst composition.

Conclusion

Claims 1-7, 9 and 10 are rejected.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
